Wrestling with Zionism: A Reader's Theater

The Unitarian Church of All Souls — 1157 Lexington Avenue / 80th Street
Reidy Hall — Thursday, February 14, 7:30 - 9:30 pm

“Wrestling with Zionism: A Reader's Theater is a storytelling project of the New York City chapter of Jewish Voice for Peace. The project explores our individual relationships to Palestine, Israel, and to the idea of Zionism.

“Conversations about Israel/Palestine can be very difficult and often people stay away from the topic because they fear any criticism of Israel will result in their being labeled anti-Semitic. Because the general narrative has been so one sided and we don't hear the multiplicity of opinions, Wrestling with Zionism focuses on voices that have not been heard. That said, our experience is that storytelling is a great way to open up the dialogue without rancor.”

UUJME thanks the New York City chapter of Jewish Voice for Peace for creating this opportunity for open discussion in a safe space of theater and exploration.
