

2016 Meeting House SC Work Camp

The Meeting House is excited to offer this work camp experience to all who are interested and looking for a way to help others and serve the Lord. We are working with an organization called Rural Mission Inc., based out of Johns Island, SC. (It's on the SC coast, just down the road from Charleston, where we will visit on our free afternoon in the middle of the week). Rural Mission was founded by Rev. Willis T. Goodwin in 1969, a Methodist pastor looking to help out the poor migrant farm workers in the area. Since then, Rural Mission has expanded to help many families and communities dealing with poverty in the Sea Island area. Today, the board of directors is composed of leaders from various church denominations and community groups. They have a wide range of programs to help those in need, but we will be working with their "Volunteer Work Camp Project."

WHEN: Leave OPMH Sunday, July 3 – and return Saturday evening, July 9

WHERE: Johns Island, SC and surrounding communities (We will stay in dorm style housing and have a chef assigned to our group who will provide all the meals for the week.)

WHAT: Tasks range from construction, renovation, repairs, roofing, insulation, drywall, painting,...this depends on the skill set of our group and need at the time. *Rural Mission has a licensed contractor who will work with us throughout the project.

COST: $270/person, plus spending money for a day trip to Charleston and meal out, as well as transportation costs.
