Words from the Bishop: What Do You Worship?

To discover what you worship, examine what is most important in your life. What path or trail do you find yourself walking down? What are you more concerned about during your waking hours? The trail NEVER lies.

At the end of the trail is a throne. What sits on the throne at the end of the trail will determine what you worship. Follow the trail of your time, follow the trail of your affections, follow the trail of your allegiance, your energy, and your money. At the end of the trail, you will discover what you worship.

Many in the church, who profess to worship the Lord Jesus Christ in spirit and truth, may actually worship their material possessions, their job, their spouse, their children. Worship is actually what we DO not simply what we say.

The expression on the faces of some worshippers give the impression that they were forced to come to church. A true worshipper WANTS to come to church because his soul has been saved and a true worshipper ENJOYS church services!

Revelation 4, describes not only how all heaven worships the Lord, but also why we worship. We worship because the Lord saved us, because He has kept us, because He loves us, and because He even helped us to love ourselves. Revelation 4 is a reminder to Christians that God is still on the throne, even in the midst of hardship. We understand that whatever we go through will be for our good and for His glory. If God is at the center of our universe, wherever we are and whatever we do, we are to worship Him in spirit and in truth. We have constant assurance that justice will be done, our joy is full and our hope is renewed.

The story of the tortoise and the hare remind the believer that the race is not given to the swift, nor to the strong, but to him that endures until the end. The hare, made for running, arrogant and full of a false sense of an assured victory in the race, became distracted by the world, lost sight of his goal, and ultimately lost the race. The tortoise, on the other hand, stayed on the course, and ended up beating the hare over the finish line.

Too often believers begin to think “they” are in control, rather than God. It is God who enables us to accomplish anything. When we drive anywhere, it was God who got us to our destination.

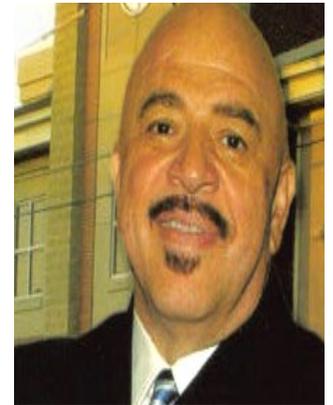

When we walk down the street, it is God who enables us to do it. Whatever mental abilities and motor skills we possess are made possible only by the grace of God.

We praise and worship what we enjoy. Some enjoy walks in the park, some enjoy music or going to the theatre. Some enjoy attending an opera and others enjoy traveling to far away places. However, we must stay focused on worshipping the Creator and not the creation. Enjoy the creation, but praise God the Creator!

Each new generation, full of potential, brings advances in technology and changes in government. However, humanity is never able to completely fix humanity. No matter how great our achievements are in education, finance, science, and entertainment, we find that human beings need hope beyond ourselves. Our greatest need is a Savior. This is why God sent us a Savior in the Lord Jesus Christ.

As He is worthy of all praise, our lives should continually seek to worship the Lord Jesus Christ in spirit and in truth. Remember no matter how difficult your situation may be—God is still on the throne working things out for our good and to His glory.

Spotlight on Our Member

KAREN BUTLER
Chief Operating Officer
Northeast Ohio Neighborhood
Health Services, Inc.

Congratulations to Dr. Karen K. Butler for being selected as one of Cleveland's Notable Women in Health Care. Karen has been a member of the Cleveland Church of Christ for a number of years. She is also a member of the Gospel Pearls and our announcer during Sunday morning worship service.

Karen Butler's superpower is her innate ability to achieve a common vision, according to Mary Scott, center director of Northeast Ohio Neighborhood (NEON)

Health Services, Inc. In 2018, Butler devised and implemented NEON's first agency-wide operations planning process. "The process opened dialogue and spurred interpersonal interaction among groups of employees...many of whom had never had the opportunity to engage with each other," Scott said in the nomination form.

Butler is the second most senior executive at the nonprofit health center network where she is responsible for the effective operation of its seven locations that staff more than 235 employees.

Under Butler's leadership, the agency initiated the full-scale implementation of a $1 million renovation project at the Hough Health Center, increased revenues by more than 35% and expanded its pantry program to more than six locations distributing more than 125,811 pounds of food to families in need.

The Police and Your Rights

It is extremely important to know your legal and Constitutional rights. These rights are the foundation of our legal system and are in place for the protection of every citizen of this country. Failure to know and utilize these rights leads to their erosion and possibly to you getting yourself deeper in trouble.

What you say to police is always important. What you say CAN be used against you, and it can give the police a reason to arrest you, especially if you insult or harass a police officer. Do not interfere with or obstruct the police—you can be arrested for it.

You DO NOT have to answer a police officer's questions. You must show your driver's license and registration when stopped in a car, but in other situations you can not legally be arrested for refusing to identify yourself to a police officer.

You DO NOT have to consent to any search of yourself, your car, or your house. If you do consent to a search, it can affect your rights later in court. If the police say they have a search warrant, ask to see it.

Some things you should do if stopped by police.

- ◆ Be polite and respectful
- ◆ Stay calm and in control
- ◆ Do not complain or argue
- ◆ Keep your hands where the police can see them
- ◆ Do not run or resist arrest
- ◆ Do not touch any police officer
- ◆ Do not make any statements about the incident
- ◆ Ask for a lawyer immediately upon your arrest
- ◆ Remember officer's badge and patrol car numbers
- ◆ Write down everything you remember ASAP

- ◆ Try to find witnesses, get names and phone numbers
- ◆ If you are injured, take photographs of the injuries ASAP
- ◆ If you feel your rights have been violated, contact the Internal Affairs Bureau (IAB) of the arresting agency

If you are stopped in your car, pull over to a safe area on the side of the road, turn the car off, and place both hands on top of the steering wheel. Do not dig around for paperwork (driver's license, registration, and proof of insurance) until asked.

In certain cases your car can be searched without a warrant, but only if police have probable cause. Make it clear that you do not consent to a search. It is unlawful to be arrested for the refusal. If you are given a ticket, sign it and fight it in court.

If you are suspected of drunk driving (DWI) and refuse to take a test (breath, blood, urine, or field sobriety) you may be arrested. You may also have your driver's license suspended.

If you are arrested or taken to a police station, take advantage of your right to remain silent. Ask to call your lawyer if you have one. Tell the police NOTHING except your name and address. Do not give any explanations, excuses, or stories without a lawyer. If you cannot afford a lawyer, you have the right to a free lawyer once your case goes to court.

Within a reasonable amount of time ask the police to contact a family member or friend. NEVER talk about the case over the phone. Anything you say at the precinct may be listened to or recorded.

You must be taken before a judge within 24 hours of your arrest. Sometimes you can be released without bail or have your bail lowered.

If you are stopped for questioning, it is not a crime to refuse to answer questions. You cannot be arrested for refusing to identify yourself on the street. Police may stop and detain you only if they have a reasonable suspicion that you have committed, are committing, or are about to commit a crime.

If police have a reasonable suspicion that you have a weapon, they may perform a frisk and pat down your clothing. Do not resist, make it clear that you do not consent to any further search. Ask if you are under arrest. If you are, you have the right to know why. If not, you have the right to leave. Do not bad mouth the officer or run away. That could lead to your arrest.

What should you do if police come to your home? If the police knock and ask to enter your home, you do not have to let them in unless they have a warrant signed by a judge (ask to see it). However, if they can see an illegal item in plain view from outside the house, they have a legitimate reason to enter without a warrant.

In some emergency situations (like when a person is screaming for help inside, or when police are chasing someone) officers are allowed to enter and search your home without a warrant.

If you are arrested in your home or in your office, the police may search you and the "grab able area" immediately surrounding you, or where illegal items are in plain view.

Some Hospice Myths Explained

The Mission of the Hospice of the Western Reserve is to provide palliative and end-of-life care, caregiver support, and bereavement services throughout Northern Ohio.

In celebration of the individual worth of each life, they strive to relieve suffering, enhance comfort, promote quality of life, foster choice in end-of-life care, and support effective grieving.

Three Myths and the true Facts you should know are given here:

1. Hospice is only for cancer patients is a myth. Anyone who has a serious illness, regardless of age or complexity of diagnosis, is eligible to receive hospice care. At Hospice of the Western Reserve, less than half of the patients have cancer. Care is provided to meet the needs of those with COPD, dementia, kidney disease, Alzheimer's, and any other life-limiting condition.

2. Hospice means giving up hope is a myth. When a cure is not an option, patients and families can find hope in taking control of healthcare choices, in making the most of time together, and in finding compassionate, comforting care through hospice.
3. Hospice is a place is another myth. Hospice care is a medical specialty that is available anywhere the patient lives. Most hospice care is delivered in the home, hospital, nursing home, or assisted living facility. They also have three home-like hospice care centers for those who need help with symptoms of pain management.

Hospice is available to help you prepare to make the choices that are right for you. There is no wrong way to begin and no better time than now.
