

Day 5 Reflection

Brian Hall

This mission trip to Belize has been amazing. What I thought this trip would entail has been surpassed tenfold. The Belizean people and the faith they have in the Lord is overwhelming.

I joined the Belize mission trip to bond with my daughter, Wellslee, and to serve the Lord by helping others who need help. What has actually transpired is that I have been able to watch my daughter grow into a beautiful young lady who has the spirit of the Lord in her heart.

I have watched as this unwavering light has shined from her into the hearts of everyone she has come in contact with on this trip. I believe this is the Lord's light shining from her to touch the lives of everyone she comes into contact with here in Belize.

This light shining from my daughter has filled my heart with so much love that it has affected me and my relationships with everyone I come into contact with here in Belize. I approach everyone I interact with and work with here on the construction crew with that same love, and my experience has been spectacular – even better than I could have ever imagined.

I came here to work hard and to interact with the locals, to share my faith with them, and to let them know how great is the Lord. It turns out, I did not need to show them. They have showed me how great the Lord is and how to have unrelenting faith in God.

They have changed my life and have truly showed me what serving the Lord really means. My life will always be the better. I have created friendships that will last forever on this trip with my SVPC family and my Belize family.

One thing in life is certain: Once you have bonded with another person over Jesus, they will be a part of your heart forever.
