

Day 5 Reflection

Hagan Riley

For Vacation Bible School, I have been working on story time. We met to plan before the first day and very quickly learned that we needed to change what we do. One thing we learned was to plan based on the different ages of the Belizean children.

Honestly, our first VBS day was kind of a mess and slightly frustrating. After that, we really talked to figure out how to make the kids happy and help them have fun. The next day, you could tell there was a change. The kids seemed more interested and actually wanted to participate.

We kept trying to stick with what we did the second day. It turned out well, which was very satisfying. To see kids willingly participating and having fun makes VBS a lot more fun.

It also makes me feel good knowing that that they enjoy what we're doing. Knowing you made kids smile definitely makes you smile too!