PRESBYTERY OF PENNSYLVANIA

September 7, 2007

NATIONAL COORDINATOR OF the PC (USA) PEACEMAKING PROGRAM to Speak at Hunter Presbyterian Church—September 26.

Hunter Presbyterian Church

Hunter Presbyterian Church has an informal dinner every Wednesday at 6:00 followed by a program at 6:30. On Wednesday, September 26, the Rev. W. Mark Koenig, the Coordinator for the Presbyterian Peacemaking Program of the Presbyterian Church (U.S.A.) will be the after dinner speaker. All are invited to Hunter, 109 Rosemont Garden, to hear Mark. Dinner will be $4.00.

In his role with the Presbyterian Peacemaking Program, Mark preaches, provides workshops on public policy advocacy and various issues related to peace and justice, writes and edits publications and resources for the program, and provides the content for the program's web page. (See pcusa.org/peacemaking.)

Mark's topic will be "Living the Believers' Calling: Peacemaking in the Presbyterian Church." He will focus on questions such as "What is peacemaking? Why are Presbyterians peacemakers? How are Presbyterians peacemakers?"

Mark has served as the Peacemaking Program's Associate for Resources and Education. Prior to joining the Peacemaking Program staff, he served as the Associate for Antiracism Training. He remains involved with antiracism ministry on behalf of the Peacemaking Program. He has served on the staff of the Presbytery of the Western Reserve, working in the areas of hunger, peacemaking and justice. He has also been co-pastor of churches in Iowa and Ohio.

He is a graduate of McCormick Theological Seminary and Westminster College (PA). He and his wife, the Rev. Tricia Dykers Koenig, have two sons, Sean (age 24) and Eric (age 20).
