The Best is Yet to Come Walking Through Doors

Think for a second about some of the important doors you've walked through. Which ones have made you nervous, excited, or scared?

We've been talking a lot about doors throughout this series, because we believe God is placing a big door in front of us right now, a door that can certainly makes us feel all those emotions we just mentioned. Which ones have you been feeling as we focus on our campaign?

Well our goal is build, to build a new sanctuary that we want to be part of an aggressive effort to grow out into the community and all the individuals we touch. That means we need you. In fact, this campaign will not work if we don't have all our people on board, growing throughout this effort. That might sound like an intimidating goal, a hard door to walk through, but listen to these words.

Hebrews 12:2-3 <sup>2</sup>Let us fix our eyes on Jesus, the author and perfecter of our faith, who for the joy set before him endured the cross, scorning its shame, and sat down at the right hand of the throne of God. <sup>3</sup>Consider him who endured such opposition from sinful men, so that you will not grow weary and lose heart.

No matter what obstacles are placed in front of us as a church, and no matter what personal obstacles you face, think on Jesus who overcame all, so that he could accomplish his mission here on earth. If we fix our eyes on Jesus and what he overcame, we can be confident that he will enable us to walk through this door and build Messiah. After all, everything we're planning is just another step, another door on the way toward the greatest door of all, the one that opens up into eternity. We truly believe, The Best is Yet to Come.
