Jake Tyler, dramatist and dramatic storyteller, gained most of his theatrical experience performing street theatre for six years with San Diego-based Lamb's Players.

He has been on staff with Youth for Christ for over 20 years, currently serving as National Field Associate for the Eastern States Region.

Jake also serves as youth pastor at his local church in Oswego, NY. He and his wife, Debbi, have been married 28 years and have six children. Jake is one guy with many characters and has a trunk full of stories, each with a point.

Nina Aprea is Executive Director of the Care Center in Islandia, NY. Nina has served as Executive Director of Lee Women's Center in Ft. Myers, Florida, and Helping Hands Pregnancy Center in New Jersey. She considers herself to be a missionary in her own land, speaking the Lord's truth to one person at a time in order to empower them to live godly lives.

The Care Center, founded in 1989, is a non-profit organization dedicated to assisting women facing unplanned pregnancy. They offer pregnancy tests and confidential support to all of their clients at no charge. They invite the community to adopt a godly view of sexuality and the sanctity of all human life while striving to bring healing and wholeness to lives traumatized by abortion.
