Thursday, February 18 John 17:1-8

Jesus was called in obedience to His Father. He honored God with obedience to His will. He accomplished for us the work that God had given Him to do. What are we called to do? We are also called to honor the will of God and to do the work of God here on earth. Jesus has set an example for us to follow.

Whether by giving of ourselves though time, money, things, or all of these, we are called to act and to give selflessly to others. We can support our church and its outreach projects through time or money; we can volunteer at our children's schools; we can bring canned goods to church each Sunday to support Harvest Hope; we can make an impact beyond our community with donations to organizations like Partners in Health or The Bread and Water Campaign.

God's will to us was revealed through Jesus and the way Jesus lived His life. Let us try to live our lives in the Grace of God.
