

What will our legacy be?

Most of our individual decisions related to Trinity Cathedral are based on our daily lives and the choices we make for ourselves and our families. Our annual stewardship commitment, participation in programming activities, and even capital building programs are individual choices we make to support the work we believe in at Trinity Cathedral.

However, we do have a higher responsibility above and beyond our day to day lives at Trinity. We, as those who have gone before us and those who will come in the future, are expected to be stewards of the physical condition of our Trinity Cathedral. You only have to glance around the Cathedral to see the results of the stewardship of the saints of past generations. What a wonderful legacy they have provided to us.

Now it is our time as faithful stewards of Trinity Cathedral to ensure that future generations will benefit from our stewardship as we have benefited from past generations. The restoration project for Trinity Cathedral is essential to ensure its physical integrity and stability for future generations.

So what will be our legacy? Will we be the same good stewards to Trinity Cathedral as those who came before us? We have enjoyed the benefit of their vision and commitment. It is our turn to define our legacy by ensuring that those who follow us will continue to have a beautiful and structurally sound Cathedral.

I hope each of you will make a personal decision to be part of our legacy for the future.
