Thoughts for Today

The Father says today, what if things weren't as bad as you think they are? What if instead of being on the edge of breakdown, meltdown, and destruction – you were walking into the greatest blessing and opportunity you ever knew? I hear you when you say you can't take anymore. I get that, and I understand that. You can't take any more – now what? Tomorrow will come, and you will still be here facing impossible odds, wondering what to do. This is the adventure of life as I intended it to be experienced. You aren't on the edge of an abyss, you are on the edge of bursting out of the bonds of your limited thinking into a new place of acceleration and accomplishment as never before. Refuse to be discouraged. There is nothing in the disappointments of situations gone by that gives you any accurate metric for what your life is about to look like. Press in. Press into the pressure that is pressing in on you. Know that I am the fourth man in your fire. Know that when the enemy does his worst, I will do My best and how do you think that will turn out? It is time once and for all to jettison pessimism, sarcasm, and negativity. These things do not endear you to Me, and they never have. It is true you will lose friends, because misery loves company and they loathe to see anyone shake themselves from the bonds of despair and walk out into the new horizons just ahead. It's a chaos decision, says God. Go ahead and make YOUR DAY because better things are just ahead.
