Catalog description: NRN320 Geriatric Nursing (3) develops the RN's knowledge and skills in applying concepts of aging which include physical, psychological, socio-cultural and spiritual variables. The impact of the aging population on the health care system will be applied to nursing practice with the older adult client.

Purpose: 1. For Whom (generally?)

NRN 320 Geriatric Nursing is for the RN to BSN student. The generic nursing students may take the course with the recommendation of their academic advisor and permission of the course faculty.

2. What should the course do for the student?

The course will expand the RN's knowledge of the physical, psychological, socio-cultural and spiritual variables on the elderly, and the impact the aging population has on the current health care system.

Teaching method planned:

The class will consist of lecture, guest lecturers, audio-visual aids, class discussions, class presentations, written assignments, hand-outs, power point slides, lecture outlines, computer-assisted instructions.

Textbook and/or materials planned (including electronic/multimedia):

Tabloski, P. (2006). Gerontological Nursing. Upper Saddle River, NJ: Pearson Prentice Hall.

Course Content: (Please explain the content of the course in enough detail so that the Academic Affairs Committee can make an informed judgment. Include a syllabus for the course.)

- Physiological, psychological, sociological and spiritual parameters unique to the elderly.
- Current demographics of aging in the United States
- Trends in nursing care of the elderly and the outcomes of the care.
- Theories and research on the aging
- Factors that influence the quality of care for the elderly in a variety of settings.
- Nursing considerations and interventions specific for the care of the elderly.

When completed, forward to the Office of the Provost.

Course Description:

NRN 320 Geriatric Nursing (3) NRN 320 is designed to develop the RN's knowledge and skills in applying concepts of aging which include physical, psychological, socio-cultural and spiritual variables. The impact of the aging population on the health care system will be applied to nursing practice with the older adult client.

Course Objectives:

1. Discuss physiological, psychological, sociological, and spiritual parameters unique to nursing care of the elderly.
2. Relate knowledge of current demographics of aging in the United States with trends in the design, management, and coordination of outcome-oriented nursing care in the health care system.
3. Apply various theories and research on aging to the practice of nursing.
4. Develop case management strategies for the elderly that incorporate health promotion, risk reduction, and disease prevention.
5. Analyze factors that influence the quality of health care received by the elderly in various settings.
6. Examine value-based behaviors and personal accountability in the nursing care of the elderly.
7. Identify nursing considerations and interventions specific to the care of the aging population.

Weekly objectives can be found in the text at the beginning of each chapter required for the week.

Course Policies:Class Attendance:

Class attendance is an expectation; however the faculty of the Department of Nursing acknowledges the complex lifestyles of the adult learner. It is expected that classes will only be missed in the advent of a true emergency. All lecture notes, handouts, and assignments will be the responsibility of the student. Notifying the course faculty of the intent to miss a class is strongly encouraged.

Plagiarism Policy:

Plagiarism is a form of academic misconduct and is the use of another person's words or ideas without providing credit to that person. It is the theft of another person's words or ideas to give the impression that you created them. These words and ideas may be from a variety of sources including printed works, speeches, presentations, and/or internet sites and documents. Appropriate and complete referencing of words and ideas obtained from others is a requirement in ALL courses. If a work is anonymous, as may be the case with some internet documents, it still must be fully referenced. The purchasing of a pre-written paper, having someone else write a paper or complete an assignment for you with or without payment, and submitting another person's work as your own are other examples of plagiarism and will be referred to the College of Nursing Honor Council; a grade of zero for any plagiarized assignment will be issued.

Written Paper Requirements:

Proficiency in English grammar is an expectation for all nursing courses.

- All papers must use appropriate sentence structure, grammar, organization, punctuation and spelling.
- All papers must demonstrate evidence of logical development of thought, clarity, and organization.
- To be accepted for grading, all written papers will be typed and consistent with APA guidelines as appropriate for the assignment.
- All written assignments may be turned in to the faculty by hand, or submitted in blackboard unless instructed otherwise.

Work Turned in Late:

Permission from faculty must be obtained for submission of late work prior to the due date. A new due date should be decided in collaboration with the faculty member. If not submitted on the new due date, a letter grade will be deducted. Failure to notify the faculty member of late work will result in a letter grade reduction.

Disclaimer:

Faculty members have the prerogative to schedule extra learning activities or change course content as deemed appropriate, related to course objectives.

Americans With Disabilities Act (ADA):

If you have a documented disability and require special assistance or accommodations, contact the Department of Nursing Chair or the University Counseling and Testing Center.

Student Rights and Responsibilities:

All RNs are expected to read and follow the policies in the Student Handbook.

Grievance Policy:

Refer to the Nursing Department's Student Handbook and/or contact the Department's Director of Student Services.
